The Jewish Film Festival is made possible in part through the generous support of the Zvi & Debbie Cohen Film Festival Foundation Fund of Jewish Federation of NH.

Lights! camera! showtime!

It's showtime in New Hampshire! Join us often during the 6th Annual New Hampshire Jewish Film Festival on screens statewide March 27–April 6, 2014. We'll present 9 films in 11 days in 5 NH cities.

The Festival is made possible through the generous support of the Jewish Federation of New Hampshire, corporate and individual sponsors, and Friends of the Festival. Thanks go to all of our valued sponsors, who provide the funding needed to produce JFNH's largest cultural event of the year. Their financial support ensures that we can bring exceptional films to New Hampshire year after year — the same films that play in major film festivals worldwide.

The 2014 selections feature an eclectic mix of films chosen to engage, educate, and entertain you in the day-to-day realities of modern Jewish culture. This season's film slate celebrates the Jewish American experience, including a children's feature. We also present award-winning dramas from around the globe, including contemporary Israel, and from difficult days in our history, with an inspiring Holocaust film.

Highlights in 2014 include the Opening Night Premiere Event at the Currier Museum of Art, nationally known speakers, and a closing comedy film, followed by our Festival Wrap Party.

It takes a vibrant Jewish community to produce a film festival of quality and depth. Heartfelt appreciation goes to the NH Jewish Film Festival volunteers for their dedication to producing this show. JFNH executive director Daniel Levenson and the office staff of JFNH provide the crucial support upon which the Festival relies day after day. Thank you, one and all.

Sharing these extraordinary films and programs with our statewide audience during our 6th season allows us to continue the NH Jewish Film Festival's tradition of excellence. Let us entertain you!

special preview event

GUEST SPEAKER

Following the JFNH March 27 showing, producer/director Peter Miller will discuss the making of AKA Doc Pomus. Miller's other producing/directing credits include Jews and Baseball: An American Love Story, A Class Apart: A Mexican American Civil Rights Story (for PBS American Experience), the critically acclaimed Sacco and Vanzetti, and producing credits on numerous Ken Burns documentaries.

Paralyzed with polio as a child, Brooklyn-born Jerome Felder reinvented himself as a blues singer, renaming himself Doc Pomus. He emerged as one of the most brilliant songwriters of the early rock and roll era, writing "Save the Last Dance for Me," "A Teenager in Love," and dozens of other hits. The film features interviews with Dr. John, Joan Osborne, Shawn Colvin, Dion, Leiber and Stoller, B.B. King, and others.

"AKA Doc Pomus will keep you humming tunes you know and love." — Huffington Post Opening Night, 2013 New York Jewish Film Festival

85 minutes, 2013 Documentary
Directors: Jeremy Goldscheider and Richard Goldgewicht, USA
7th Art Releasing

ADMISSION: $10 per person

The story of one man's obsessive search to get closer to his deceased father by uncovering the story of his family and their town. First made famous by Jonathan Safran Foer's Everything Is Illuminated, Trochenbrod was the only all-Jewish town outside of Palestine. All but 33 of its 5,000 Jewish residents were obliterated by the Nazis. Contemporary documentary footage, original animation, and survivor testimonials tell the story of how far one will go to claim a sense of identity.
